Miriam Kotsopoulos is a Coach and Speaker dedicated to helping teams and individuals achieve peak performance at all stages of their career. With over 25 years of experience across industries including law, consulting, CPG, and financial services, Miriam is an expert at empowering people to do their best work.

Miriam is a compelling speaker and a collaborative coach. She develops strong client relationships by identifying their needs, establishing a high level of trust, and implementing a framework for success.

In her corporate roles, Miriam managed high profile corporate relationships for a variety of industries and companies, including the Nielsen Company of Canada, American Express, TD Bank, and Global Payments, overseeing portfolios of large enterprise clients.

Miriam graduated with an Honours BSc degree from the University of Toronto, where she majored in economics and psychology. She became a certified Orange Frog Workshop leader, which teaches how positive psychology fuels success and professional performance based on the research and teachings of Shawn Achor.

When not working, Miriam enjoys spending time with her husband and two adult children. Miriam can be found playing recreational sports, hiking, meditating, cooking, and travelling.
